THE ATTACK ON THE LATE QUEEN EMMA.

It is a pity that some one does not translate into the native language some portions of the book recently published by Liliuokalani. The natives ought to be well informed about the untruthful, malicious, and libellous charges she makes against the late Queen Emma. In this book, Hawaiians, Liliuokalani charges that Queen Emma constantly watched Lunaillo, and begged him to make himself his successor. She calls Queen Emma indelicate and says Lunaillo would make no reply. She charges that Queen Emma was constantly engaged in intrigues against King Kalakaua; that she never recovered from her disappointment, after she failed to be elected Queen in preference to Kalakaua. She not only makes a strong effort in this book to injure the reputation of Queen Emma, to present her as a low-bred, cunning, deceitful creature, but she goes further than this. She seriously states that Queen Emma was not equal to herself in rank.

If the native Hawaiians have any reverence, it is for the rank of their chiefs. On that point they never needed to be instructed. Their genealogies were the precious literature of the people. Their songs preserved every item and detail of royal history. When Liliuokalani tells the natives that Queen Emma was, in fact, a person of inferior rank to herself, she strikes at native sentiment and literature. There was not the least occasion for her attack on the reputation of a charming woman, who was deeply respected by foreigner and native, and whose rank was fixed long before Liliuokalani chose to marry not within her own race but out of it. In this, if in nothing else, Queen Emma was more loyal and true to her own race than this malicious ex-Queen. Just as we believe that an American girl is more loyal to her own people, when she marries an American and not an Italian or Frenchman.

Queen Emma did, by Hawaiian custom represent the Kamehamehas. The reasons why Lunaillo did not appoint her as his successor need not be discussed here. The natives know that she did not go a begging for the Throne.

Nor will we go into the history of Kalakaua's election, organized and carried out most successfully by the late Samuel G. Wilder, and without whose aid Kalakaua would have hardly been even nominated.

Looking at the matter, for a moment, from the Hawaiian standpoint, one may understand that the intelligent native "Royalists" are indignant that the obstinacy and foolishness of Liliuokalani destroyed the Monarchy and involved an innocent and intelligent girl in its downfall. But one would expect that the same native Royalists, would be doubly indignant that the woman who so stupidly precipitated this "calamity," if it was one, should turn about and vilify the memory of the most charming woman that ever shared the Throne. If the natives and part natives submit without protest to this malicious attack on the memory of Queen Emma, they have no reverence for their old Kamehameha line.

THE THIRST FOR GORE.

Symptoms of the war spirit are rapidly developing in this town. Young men who wish to see "life" desire to join the forces that probably will enter Cuba before long. Before taking up the matter seriously they should consult the old campaigners and learn something about war. The young men regard it as a sort of picnic. But they do not realize that the picnic part of it is soon over. We recall, and no doubt many here, can recall, the enthusiasm of the "three months volunteers" in the American Civil War. The romantic stories of camp life during the Revolutionary and Mexican wars, were in every young man's mind. Secretary Seward had declared that the coming war would last "only 60 days." The young men who saw service for three months were as a rule quite contented with that experience. A man who enters the military service ceases to be his own master, and must submit to rigid rules and often to insolent superior officers. He is not allowed the privilege of leaving camp, and must take the food that is given to him. The volunteers in the Mexican war had, on the whole, rather a pleasant time of it, but many had very bad luck in being confined to undesirable places.

No doubt an invasion of Cuba by an American army, may be in the nature of a picnic, provided the movements of the forces may be made, with regard to climate.

But it is quite evident that several hundred thousand of young Americans wish to join in the Cuban picnic, and it will be difficult to find places for them. Perhaps the Washington Government will sell the privileges to the highest bidders. The papers indicate, however, that the plan is to utilize the State militia, which is now maintained at considerable expense. There is now an excellent opportunity to test its value. Its existence is largely due to the experience obtained in the Civil war, where several hundred thousand men went to the battle fields, without officers who had even read the books on military tactics. We recall the case of a regiment of a thousand men, packed in a train of cars moving southward from Philadelphia in 1861, where the captains were sitting in the baggage car, in full uniform reading Hardee's tactics. The loss of life and property was so great owing to the weakness of this extemporized army, it forced, after the war, a wider organization of the State militia. We may now see it called upon to serve, and prove its efficiency in an emergency.

One Large Scar

Is All That Remains of Great Scrofula Sores

Neighbors Could Not Bear to Look Upon Her—A Grand, Complete Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla After Others Failed.

"I was taken with neuralgia in my head and eyes. Not long after this, a scrofula sore appeared on my left cheek, extending from my upper lip to my eye. Other sores came on my neck and on my right arm and one of my limbs. They were very troublesome and painful and soon became great running sores. My face looked so bad that some of my neighbors could not bear to look at me and advised me to wear a bandage, but I feared this would irritate the sore and make it worse. So I Could Not Hide the Sores.

My niece, who was familiar with a case similar to mine, which had been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, urged me to try it. Finally I was persuaded to do so, and in a short time I saw it was helping me. The sores began to heal and the neuralgia in my head was better. In a few months the sores on my arms and limbs all healed; those on my neck gradually disappeared and now they are all gone. I have never had any symptom of scrofula since. One large scar on my right arm is all the sign that remains of my terrible affliction. The neuralgia is also cured."

TIMELY TOPICS

April 30, 1898.

The Summer is fast approaching and shortly the usual dry weather will prevail, and stock will suffer. It is all right with the big plantations, which have large steam pumps and get an ample supply of water (at an enormous expense), but a stock ranch does not need such a quantity of water and could not afford the price. But with our different sized

AERMOTORS

we supply any quantity up to 10,000 Gallons an Hour,

at a minimum of expense. It is unnecessary for us to enlarge on the good qualities of the AERMOTOR as they are known to all people who have ever gone outside the city, as you can hardly travel a mile in any direction without seeing one or more of them.

Thorough tests at various times and under all conditions have made the Aermotor the Standard.
